Hand in Hand & CARE – what we set out to do

• Three-year, US $3m partnership

• Graft Hand in Hand Eastern Africa’s business training on to CARE’s existing VSLAs (Savings Groups)

• Create 80,000 sustainable jobs in Eastern Province, Rwanda

• Increase incomes, savings and asset accumulation

• Improve financial knowledge, skills and confidence

• Increase skills to develop small businesses and income generating activities
The science

• In June 2016 the Swedish Development Advisers surveyed 530 randomly selected respondents from CARE VSLAs, representing:

  – 430 respondents from the ‘Project Members’ of the Job Creation Project

  – 100 respondents from the ‘Comparison Groups’ (CARE savings groups members, not included in the Job Creation Program and therefore not beneficiaries of the Hand in Hand business training)
How did we do?

- 130,000 members trained
- 115,000 jobs created/enhanced
- Women’s participation 80%

What happens when you combine business know-how with saving skills?

More than 10 million. That's the number of Savings Group members worldwide. For 25 years, in 70 countries, the groups have been lauded for banking the unbanked, boosting women's economic empowerment and strengthening social cohesion.

Now, according to new research, another achievement can be added to the list. When the NGOs Hand in Hand and CARE teamed up to teach business skills to 150,000 Savings Group members in Rwanda, thousands of jobs were created – and incomes were boosted by 75 percent.

This data visualization illustrates the impact of introducing business training to all of sub-Saharan Africa's Savings Groups, using the real number of members in each country.
